

SPECIFICATION

Please amend the paragraph beginning at page 15, line 18 as follows:

The DCE 100 performs all the functions of transfer for copyrighted digital files 104, including all the functions of an exchange applied to copyrighted digital files. These include but are not limited to legal transfer, file verification, price discovery, file delivery, money transfer. Every transfer of ownership (physical media or digital media) creates a transaction subject to payment of copyright fees. The conversion of the file 104 owned for a single owner is not a transaction. Similarly, the download of a file owned for a single owner is not a transaction. Although these types of actions are not considered transactions within the DCE 100, a record of the actions [[I]] is maintained. While the DCE 100 maintains membership and registration data of sellers and/or buyers, no information on users or customers of the DCE 100 is ever provided to the copyright holders 102. Sales summary information may optionally be provided to a copyright holder 102 by the DCE 100.